CANADIAN BOY HERO WILL SPEND A FEW DAYS IN THIS CITY

Boy Only Fifteen Years of Age Looks Like Man of Forty—Ravages of War Shown in Face of Hero Lad.

Connie Levender, of Carnia, Ontario, is spending a few days in Maysville on his trip through the country and has interested many about the Kentucky Hotel, where he is staying, with his stories of the great world conflict in Europe.

At ten years of age Levender left his home as mascot drummer boy with the famous Princess Pat regiment and was with them in their great battles in France and Flanders. At eleven years of age he was given a rifle and he soon won a medal as a sniper. He was bayoneted, gassed twice, wounded with shrapnel and finally was shell shocked and lay in a hospital at the Hague for four months in an unconscious condition.

Upon his return home after the war, Connie was not recognized by his family. The ravages of the great war have made a lasting impression upon the lad's features and one would take him to be between 35 and 40 years of age. He carries with him documents to prove his age and his connection with the Canadian troops and one citation from an officer says: "He was fearless. He had a remarkable vision at night—the sight of a cat. He did outpost duty. He was in raiding parties, in big offensives and defensive engagements. I saw him in action, time and again, quick and with judgment and wariness of a man."

Upon the advice of physicians the lad is spending his time in the open and is doing much hiking over the country. He will probably be in Maysville a couple of days and while here would like to find some light employment by means of which he can make enough money to get him on his way toward the South where he will spend the winter. Levender can be reached at the Kentucky hotel and will do any little odd jobs to make a piece of money. He is not begging but he is endeavoring to make his way by means of light work which he is able to do.

PRAYER MEETING TONIGHT.

The regular mid-week prayer service will be held at the First Baptist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Members are urged to attend these services and the public is cordially invited.

FARMERS SHOW INTEREST IN MOTOR TOUR THROUGH HERE

Large Motor Trucks To Interest Farmers in Machine Hauling To Be Here With Entertainments.

Much interest is being shown by the farmers along the route of the "Motorize-The-Farm" tour which has been organized by the Cincinnati Truck Dealers' Association to demonstrate the adaptability and economy of the motor truck on the farm.

The motorcade which will consist of a large display of modern trucks, trailers and other farming hauling equipment, is valued at $135,000 and will be one of the largest assemblies of trucks and farm hauling apparatus ever seen outside of the New York or Chicago shows.

No particular truck, trailer nor any other equipment will be advertising on the tour nor will selling or solicitation of business be permitted by the Association. The purpose of the tour is to demonstrate that trucks can be used for practically all kinds of farm work at less cost than by the old methods, to boost goods roads and speed up production on the farm.

Demonstrations have been arranged for on farms along the route so the farmers can see the trucks operating under actual working conditions. These demonstrations consist of pulling manure spreaders over soft fields, hauling corn from the crib over plowed ground to hog lots, carrying fencing material and farm implements to points out on the farm where they are needed, and any other type of farm hauling which will show the ability of the truck.

Accompanying the tour will be speakers with a national knowledge of farming conditions who will talk on present farm conditions and other subjects of interest to the farmers. The association has been very fortunate in securing A. H. Kroh, practical farmer and recognized authority on farm production and marketing, and Harry T. Frazier, trucking engineer, as the principal speakers for this tour. Their talks will contain much valuable information and every farmer in this section should take advantage of the opportunity to hear what these men have to say.

Music and entertainment will be furnished at each stop by the Yolo Jazz Trio, which will accompany the tour. An added attraction will be the singing of "Sunshine Boy" Williams, who though blinded in a gas attack while serving in France, is doing wonderful community work in Cincinnati despite this handicap.

A complete farm-lighting outfit will be mounted on one of the trucks and will supply the current for lighting up the caravan and for the moving pictures.

The tour covers 350 miles and more than 30 towns will be visited including Maysville, Germantown, Brooksville, Augusta and Falmouth.

MULE'S KICK IS FATAL.

Monday morning when Sam Woodard, aged probably 70, living in the Lick Branch neighborhood, Bath county, went into his stable to wake up the family mule for the day's business, he found the mule lying down, and as he neared it the mule got up and as Mr. Woodard got in range the mule kicked him squarely over the heart, causing his almost instant death. Mr. Woodard was for a long time a teamster between Sherburne and Maysville, and was known to many of our people. He is survived by a wife and several children.

BAND PLAYS ITS BEST.

Manager J. Barbour Russell says the Maysville Boys' Band played its best at the Germantown Fair Wednesday and the great crowds were more than pleased with their music. Four new pieces, "Naughty Waltz," "Carolina Sunshine," "Sweet and Low" and "When the Rest of the World Goes By" were played by the band. All four of these pieces have been taught the band by their new director and it seems nothing short of miraculous that he could teach the band these four up-to-the-minute numbers in such a short time.

METAL POLES GOING UP.

The metal poles to be used for the extension of the White Way along East Third street are now being put in their position ready to receive the wires which will be installed within the next few days and soon after the next meeting of city council the new system will be ready to be flashed on.

FALLS FROM BARN AND BREAKS RIBS.

Mr. Frank Perrault, of Peach Orchard Stock Farm, fell from his barn loft Wednesday and suffered three broken ribs and other bruises and injuries. He is not, however, dangerously injured.

MAGNITUDE OF STATE'S TOBACCO INDUSTRY SHOWN

Census Figures Show 4,100 Tobacco Dealers in the State of Kentucky This Year.

Some idea of the magnitude of the tobacco industry in Kentucky this year may be gained from information just made public through the Department of Commerce at Washington.

The report shown in Maysville today places the total number of tobacco dealers in the state last year at approximately 4,100, while the number of manufacturers in Kentucky was 275.

Of the latter, 175 were manufacturers of cigars and 100 manufacturers of leaf. These were located in almost every city and town in Kentucky, with a large percentage located in Louisville.

The industry has grown rapidly during recent years, the report shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klauk and daughters, after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Frank Keith, of Forest avenue, returned to their home last night at Ceco, Letcher county.

Mrs. J. L. Allen and children have returned to their home at Paris after a pleasant visit with her brother, Prof. John Hurst Adams and family of Minerva.

Mrs. Maggie P. Barbour, of Covington, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Newell, of Limestone street.

COAL PROBES TO CUT PRICES IS FEDERAL FORECAST

Investigation of Alleged Profiteering in Coal Is Expected to Bring the Prices Down Immediately.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Forecast of a tumble in coal prices was made by Department of Justice officials last night coincident with the announcement of "renewed activity" in the campaign against coal profiteers. With production on the increase, prediction was made that the coal market would follow sugar prices in a break in the near future.

Prices already have dropped at Baltimore, where Federal agents have started to gather evidence against an alleged combination of dealers who were declared to have raised prices through repeated resales.

A similar attack on profiteers has been ordered at Hampton Roads, one of the largest bunkering stations on the Eastern seaboard. Complaints have come frequently from there and from Baltimore, it was said.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 26.—Lexington is fixed as the headquarters of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association in the articles of incorporation, preparation of which was concluded Wednesday by the organization committee. The committee adjourned after calling a ratification meeting of growers' delegates for September 30 in Lexington.

The affairs of the association will be conducted by a board of directors of not less than ten nor more than twenty-five members. The articles will be filed immediately after the meeting by incorporators and an active campaign for members will follow.

Final details will be completed today by a subcommittee composed of John W. Newman, Versailles; David Prewitt, Clark county, and Judge George Webb, counsel of the association.

Mr. William F. Sproemberg and nephew, Master Linn Orr, are in Cincinnati today to see the Cincinnati Philadelphia ball game.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IS PROCLAIMED BY SECRETARY COLBY

Secretary of State This Morning Formally Declared Nineteenth Amendment To Be In Effect.

Washington, August 26.—The proclamation announcing officially that the suffrage amendment to the Constitution had been ratified was signed, today, by Secretary Colby of the State department.

The proclamation of the amendment, giving the vote to women, followed receipt of a certificate of ratification of the amendment by the Tennessee Legislature, and brought to a conclusion one of the longest and bitter legislative fights in the history of the United States.

Secretary of State Colby, arriving at the State department shortly before 10 o'clock, announced that he had signed the suffrage proclamation at 8 o'clock this morning at his home.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES

Jack Hears More About Governor Coolidge.

"If you don't tell us now I know you'll never tell us." It was Jack talking after coaxing his Uncle for ten minutes to tell them some more about Calvin Coolidge, Vice-Presidential candidate on the Republican ticket.

"I suppose if I were dying," said Uncle Ted, "the last thing you'd want would be a story. Well, all right, come on over here, and you too, Ruth, and I'll start where I left off two weeks ago and tell you a few more things about Governor Coolidge."

"Has he any children?" asked Ruth. "Yes, Ruth, he has two boys and they play the violin and mandolin quite well. I told you about the Boston police strike and how he handled that situation so well and how President Wilson sent him a telegram of congratulation when he was re-elected Governor. Although he occupies the highest office in the great state of Massachusetts, he lives very simply in a two-story frame house in the town of Northampton and his telephone is on a 'party line' with the minister of one of the local churches. While in Boston at his official work he lives in a single room in a hotel and each weekend he makes the trip of about one hundred miles home to his family."

"The first public office held by Governor Coolidge was that of clerk of Hampshire county, having been appointed to complete the term of a man who had died. When the term of office expired he would not run for it but returned to his law practice. Not long afterward he was elected a member of the city council of Northampton. While serving on the city council he was elected city solicitor and a little later he represented the city of Northampton in the general court. In 1908 the people wanted him to run for Mayor. He made the race and was elected, and in 1909 was re-elected to the same office."

"As he continued to be elected to these various offices he became more and more popular and in 1910 he was elected to the state senate. He served two terms there and for some time was president of the senate. Of course, while he was in the senate of the state he had an opportunity to know people from all parts of the state and after he left the senate he held the office of lieutenant governor for three years. He left this office to become governor and proved himself one of the most able of all the war governors. He is not an orator but his speeches are of the plain and easily understood type. He is always earnest and convincing in what he has to say and his fund of dry humor has made him greatly in demand as a speaker throughout the New England states."

"Has he written much?" asked Jack, whose one ambition is to become a writer.

"Yes, indeed, Jack. In fact, he is better known as a writer than as a speaker. His writings are full of pointed epigrams. Here are a few: 'There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time.' 'Duty is not collective, it is personal.' 'Unless good citizens hold office, bad citizens will.' 'Those who attempt to lead the wage-earners, must first show that they themselves are patriots.' 'We need more of the office desk and less of the show-window in politics. Let men in office substitute the midnight oil for the lime-light.'"

"And here, kiddies, is a very good one to remember, 'Do the day's work. If it be to protect the rights of the weak, whoever objects, do it. If it be to help a powerful corporation better to serve the people, whatever the opposition, do that. Expect to be called a stand-patter, but don't be a stand-patter. Expect to be called a demagogue, but don't be a demagogue.'"

"These quotations give you some idea of the way he thinks and writes. After the many big things he had accomplished his many friends wanted him to be an active candidate for the Presidential nomination. His friends went so far as to open 'Coolidge Headquarters' in Washington and Senator Lodge (Republican leader of the Senate) said he would present Governor Coolidge's name to the convention in Chicago if the Governor desired. But all of this action stopped when Coolidge said he would not be a candidate, stating that so long as he was Governor of Massachusetts his job was right in the State House at Boston. His unmarked ability was recognized in 1919 when he was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by the three colleges of Amherst, Tufts and Williams."

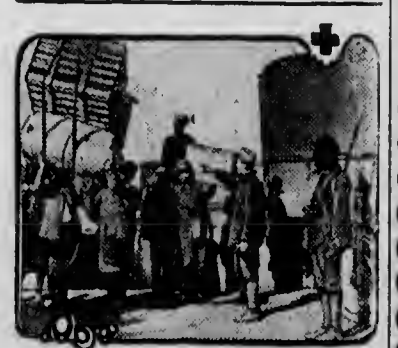

"So you can see that the man who will be our next Vice President, the second highest office in the United States, is a real man and a man who has accomplished things. At least Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge will not be dictated to by anybody. President Wilson will be the dictator to Governor Cox should he be elected. So if the people should elect Mr. Cox they will simply be electing Mr. Wilson; in fact, it is rumored that he intends to stay in Washington and run every bit of the Government he possibly can. And should Mr. Cox be elected Mr. Wilson sure will run it unless Tammany Hall, the sponsors of Governor Cox, succeed in getting the upperhand."

In Cashmere a novel method of putting fodder away for winter use is in vogue. The chief industry of the people consists in raising fine wool and in making this into fabrics which have carried the name of the country all over the world. As in winter snow lies some five or six yards deep, supplies of hay are hung among the branches of trees, where they are easily reached by the flocks of sheep.

Although street beating in London is usually carried on in very small sums, the curbstone bookmakers, as they are called, often take as much as a thousand dollars in a day on the occasion of a big race or other sporting event.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. At Saloniki.

The veritable mountains of relief supplies turned out by the millions of chapter workers during the war made the American Red Cross one of the biggest "manufacturing concerns" in the world, with great warehouse space at scores of strategic points all around the globe.

One of the biggest distribution centers was at Saloniki, Greece, and in this picture Bulgarian prisoners of war are seen there unloading a Red Cross cargo of 2,300 boxes from a French transport. At the right is seen one of the American Red Cross caissons, fleets of which were used in rushing relief to points where the suffering was greatest.

COX'S SUPPORT OF WILSON PRE-SAGES HIS DEFEAT

Political Sharps in Washington, D. C., Regard White House Visit and Alliance As Fatal.

Washington, Aug. 25. — More and more the impression prevails in the National Capital that when Governor Cox called upon President Wilson at the White House he handed Senator Harding a certificate of election.

The general belief prevails here that the country had already made up its mind to repudiate the President. His arrogance toward those differing with him in opinion, his specious promises of four years ago about keeping the country out of war, his idealistic and impracticable notions about Mexican and European affairs, his flirting with Socialism while flaying Bolshevism, the general incompetency and waste of his Administration, and his efforts to prevent any slightest protection of American interests in the League of Nations covenant, had completely estranged great masses of the people.

The Democratic convention, it was thought in Washington, had put forward its most promising candidate in that he was supposed to be somewhat antagonistic to the Wilson ascendancy over the Democratic party and had not been nominated by the friends and followers of the President.

Hence the White House visit and the subsequent utterances of the two men came like a bombshell. Public opinion was thereby denied. Cox tied himself to a dead horse, politically speaking. In so many words he declared that he would uphold the position of the President in regard to the league and all other matters, that the President's fight was his fight. The President let it be known that the Cox attitude was eminently satisfactory to him.

Many Democratic members of the House and Senate were dismayed and dumfounded. Some among them said Cox could do no more in the beginning of the campaign than stand by the Democratic Administration. These privately expressed the opinion, after he had made this initial move and made sure of a united party, that he would gradually break away from the absurdities and un-Americanism of the Chief Executive's position and assume a more independent attitude. Republican members of Congress laughed at this. They said Cox had buried himself beyond resurrection by his unnecessarily taking on the load of Woodrow Wilson, whom the country repudiated in 1918 and is ready to repudiate again.

But both Republicans and Democratic members showed a disposition to wait. They would see what effect the visit had on the country. They would see what Cox said in his speech of acceptance. They found that the country reacted unfavorably to the President, as was to have been expected. And they found that the acceptance speech only accentuated the alliance between Wilson and Cox. They took the position and still hold to it that Cox is not fighting his own battle but that of Wilson, and that if Cox should be successful at the polls he would carry on the ideas and methods of Wilson and not of Cox.

Further credence to this view is given by the fact that Cox since his nomination has shown not the slightest originality or independence. He has not indicated that if elected he will stand out for something different and better than has already been done by President Wilson. He has not offered any suggestion of anything new for the bettering of the government. What he says, is this: "Whatever Wilson did was right. I could do no better. Hence I have accepted his position in toto. Furthermore, anyone who attacks him is doing exactly the same as if he kicked a wounded soldier in the stomach."

FINAL DECISION.

Senator Harding is to deliver an address at the Minnesota State Fair on September 8. Otherwise the campaign of the Republican candidate for President will be conducted from his front porch at Marion, O. This is said to be the final decision of Senator Harding and his political advisers. There will be some disappointment, of course, but it is by no means certain that the Republican chance of success will be injured. Governor Cox may prove to be a first-class man upon the stump. William J. Bryan was a full hand when it came to stirring up the voters, but he ran for President three times and always went down to defeat. James G. Blaine was the most magnetic statesman the country ever produced, and he stumped the country in his own interest. He was beaten by the almost unknown Governor Cleveland. Henry Clay was another pastmaster of politics and oratory, who went "out among 'em" in his several campaigns. He may have been right, but he never became President, and John Randolph sagely observed that the great commoner of 100 years ago could induce more people to come out to hear him speak and fewer to vote for him than any man in the country. — Salt Lake City Tribune.

Mrs. Boyd Tells How Her Daughter Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Danville, Ill.—"My daughter was very delicate and we thought we could not raise her. She was troubled with irregularity and she was not able to go to school. For a year we gave her all kinds of tonics but to no good. One day one of your little books was thrown on our porch and I saw what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for my daughter."

If every girl who suffers as Miss Boyd did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, headache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years' experience is at your service.

ARMED MEN STEAL WHISKY FROM DISTILLERY

Fifteen Barrels of Liquor Taken From Ardsell Distillery at Early Hour Yesterday.

Harrodsburg, Ky., August 26.—Ten men, all armed and wearing masks, held up two night watchmen at the Van Ardsell distillery, nine miles north of Harrodsburg, early Wednesday, rolled 15 barrels of whisky out of the warehouse to a waiting truck and sped away. The truck was traced to this city, where the trail was lost.

Night Watchman R. L. Young had retired to the back parlor of the office, and the other watchman, Allen Lawrence, had just completed his rounds and was seated in the front, when a masked man entered.

The robber pointed a revolver at Lawrence and said: "Don't wake up your partner." Two other armed masked men then entered and held Lawrence in prison, while the others broke into the warehouse. H. Stites Milton, manager of the distillery, said that the tracks showed that the thieves came in two touring cars and a truck.
